No consideration to trade should be made without thoroughly understanding and reviewing the risks involved in such trading. If you are unsure, you must seek professional advice on the same.

In considering whether to trade or authorize someone to trade for you, you should be aware of or must get acquainted with the following:-

1. BASIC RISKS INVOLVED IN TRADING ON THE STOCK EXCHANGE (EQUITY AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS)

1.1 Risk of Higher Volatility

Volatility refers to the dynamic changes in price that securities or derivatives or currency derivatives undergo when trading activity continues on the Stock Exchange. Generally, higher the volatility of a securities or derivatives or currency derivatives contract, greater is its price swings. There may be normally greater volatility in thinly traded securities or derivatives or currency derivatives contracts than in active securities or derivatives or currency derivatives contracts. As a result of volatility, your order may only be partially executed or not executed at all, or the price at which your order got executed may be substantially different from the last traded price or change substantially thereafter, resulting in notional or real losses.

1.2 Risk of Lower Liquidity

Liquidity refers to the ability of market participants to buy and/or sell securities / derivatives / currency derivatives contracts expeditiously at a competitive price and with minimal price difference. Generally, it is assumed that more the numbers of orders available in a market, greater is the liquidity. Liquidity is important because with greater liquidity, it is easier for investors to buy and/or sell securities or derivatives or currency derivatives contracts swiftly and with minimal price difference, and as a result, investors are more likely to pay or receive a competitive price for securities or derivatives or currency derivatives contracts purchased or sold. There may be a risk of lower liquidity in some securities or derivatives or currency derivatives contracts as compared to active securities / contracts. As a result, your order may only be partially executed, or may be executed with relatively greater price difference or may not be executed at all.

1.2.1 Buying/selling without intention of giving and/or taking delivery of a security or derivative or currency derivative contract, as part of a day trading strategy, may also result into losses, because in such a situation, stocks may have to be sold/purchased at a low/high prices, compared to the expected price levels, so as not to have any obligation to deliver/receive a security (open position).

1.3 Risk of Wider Spreads

Spread refers to the difference in best buy price and best sell price. It represents the differential between the price of buying a security and immediately selling it or vice versa. Lower liquidity and higher volatility may result in wider than normal spreads for less liquid or illiquid securities / contracts. This in turn will hamper better price formation.

1.4 Risk-reducing orders

Most Exchanges have a facility for investors to place "limit orders", "stop loss orders" etc. The placing of such orders (e.g., "stop loss" orders, or "limit" orders) which are intended to limit losses to certain amounts may not be effective many a time, because rapid movement in market conditions may make it impossible to execute such orders.

1.4.1 A "market" order will be executed promptly, subject to availability of orders on opposite side, without regard to price and that, while the customer may receive a prompt execution of a "market" order, the execution may be at available prices of outstanding orders, which satisfy the order quantity, on price time priority. It may be understood that these prices may be significantly different from the last traded price or the best price in that security.

1.4.2 A "limit" order will be executed only at the "limit" price specified for the order or a better price. However, while the customer receives price protection, there is a possibility that the order may not be executed at all.

1.4.3 A stop loss order is generally placed "away" from the current price of a stock / derivative or currency derivative contract, and such order gets activated if and when the stock / derivative or currency derivative contract reaches, or trades through, the stop price. Sell stop orders are entered ordinarily below the current price, and buy stop orders are entered ordinarily above the current price. When the stock / derivative or currency derivative contract reaches the pre-determined price, or trades through such price, the stop loss order converts to a market/limit order and is executed at the limit or better. There is no assurance therefore that the limit order will be executable since a stock / derivative or currency derivative contract might penetrate the pre-determined price, in which case, the risk of such order not getting executed arises, just as with a regular limit order.

1.5 Risk of News Announcements

Issuers make news announcements that may impact the price of the securities / derivatives or currency derivatives contracts. These announcements may occur during trading, and when combined with lower liquidity and higher volatility, may suddenly cause an unexpected positive or negative movement in the price of the security / contract.

1.6 Risk of Rumours:

Rumours about companies / currencies at times float in the market through word of mouth, newspapers, websites or news agencies, etc. The investors should be wary of and should desist from acting on rumours.

1.7 System Risk:

High volume trading will frequently occur at the market opening and before market close. Such high volumes may also occur at any point in the day. These may cause delays in order execution or confirmation.

1.7.1 During periods of volatility, on account of market participants continuously modifying their order quantity or prices or placing fresh orders, there may be delays in order execution and its confirmations.

1.7.2 Under certain market conditions, it may be difficult or impossible to liquidate a position in the market at a reasonable price or at all, when there are no outstanding orders either on the buy side or the sell side, or if trading is halted in a security due to any action on account of unusual trading activity or stock / derivative or currency derivative contract hitting circuit filters or for any other reason.

1.8 System/Network Congestion

Trading on NSE/BSE is in electronic mode, based on satellite/leased line based communications, combination of technologies and computer systems to place and route orders. Thus, there exists a possibility of communication failure or system problems or slow or delayed response from system or trading halt, or any such other problem/glitch whereby not being able to establish access to the trading system/network, which may be beyond the control of and may result in delay in processing or not processing buy or sell orders either in part or in full. You are cautioned to note that although these problems may be temporary in nature, but when you have outstanding open positions or unexecuted orders, these represent a risk because of your obligations to settle all executed transactions.

2. As far as Futures and Options segment and Currency Derivatives segment are concerned, please note and get yourself acquainted with the following additional features

2.1 Effect of "Leverage" or "Gearing"

The amount of margin is small relative to the value of the derivatives contract so the transactions are 'leveraged' or 'geared'.

Derivatives trading, which is conducted with a relatively small amount of margin, provides the possibility of great profit or loss in comparison with the principal investment amount. But transactions in derivatives carry a high degree of risk.

You should therefore completely understand the following statements before actually trading in derivatives trading and also trade with caution while taking into account one's circumstances, financial resources, etc. If the prices move against you, you may lose a part of or whole margin equivalent to the principal investment amount in a relatively short period of time. Moreover, the loss may exceed the original margin amount.

- A. Futures trading involves daily settlement of all positions. Every day the open positions are marked to market based on the closing level of the index / currency derivative contract. If the index / currency derivative contract has moved against you, you will be required to deposit the amount of loss (notional) resulting from such movement. This margin will have to be paid within a stipulated time frame, generally before commencement of trading next day.
- B. If you fail to deposit the additional margin by the deadline, or if an outstanding debt occurs in your account, the broker/ member may liquidate a part of or the whole position or substitute securities. In this case, you will be liable for any losses incurred due to such close-outs.
- C. Under certain market conditions, an investor may find it difficult or impossible to execute transactions. For example, this situation can occur due to factors such as illiquidity i.e. when there are insufficient bids or offers or suspension of trading due to price limit or circuit breakers etc.
- D. In order to maintain market stability, the following steps may be adopted: changes in the margin rate, increases in the cash margin rate or others.
These new measures may also be applied to the existing open interests. In such conditions, you will be required to put up additional margins or reduce your positions.
- E. You must ask your broker to provide the full details of the derivatives / currency derivatives contracts you plan to trade i.e. the contract specifications and the associated obligations.

2.2. Risk of Option holders

- 1. An option holder runs the risk of losing the entire amount paid for the option in a relatively short period of time. This risk reflects the nature of an option as a wasting asset which becomes worthless when it expires. An option holder who neither sells his option in the secondary market nor exercises it prior to its expiration will necessarily lose his entire investment in the option. If the price of the underlying does not change in the anticipated direction before the option expires to an extent sufficient to cover the cost of the option, the investor may lose all or a significant part of his investment in the option.
- 2. The Exchange may impose exercise restrictions and have absolute authority to restrict the exercise of options at certain times in specified circumstances.

2.3 Risks of Option Writers

- 1. If the price movement of the underlying is not in the anticipated direction, the option writer runs the risks of losing substantial amount.
- 2. The risk of being an option writer may be reduced by the purchase of other options on the same underlying interest and thereby assuming a spread position or by acquiring other types of hedging positions in the options markets or other markets. However, even where the writer has assumed a spread or other hedging position, the risks may still be significant. A spread position is not necessarily less risky than a simple 'long' or 'short' position.
- 3. Transactions that involve buying and writing multiple options in combination, or buying or writing options in combination with buying or selling short the underlying interests, present additional risks to investors. Combination transactions, such as option spreads, are more complex than buying or writing a single option. And it should be further noted that, as in any area of investing, a complexity not well understood is, in itself, a risk factor. While this is not to suggest that combination strategies should not be considered, it is advisable, as is the case with all investments in options, to consult with someone who is experienced and knowledgeable with respect to the risks and potential rewards of combination transactions under various market circumstances.

2.4 Currency specific risks

- 1. The profit or loss in transactions in foreign currency-denominated contracts, whether they are traded in your own or another jurisdiction, will be affected by fluctuations in currency rates where there is a need to convert from the currency denomination of the contract to another currency.
- 2. Under certain market conditions, you may find it difficult or impossible to liquidate a position. This can occur, for example when a currency is deregulated or fixed trading bands are widened.
- 3. Currency prices are highly volatile. Price movements for currencies are influenced by, among other things: changing supply-demand relationships; trade, fiscal, monetary, exchange control programs and policies of governments; foreign political and economic events and policies; changes in national and international interest rates and inflation; currency devaluation; and sentiment of the market place. None of these factors can be controlled by any individual advisor and no assurance can be given that an advisor's advice will result in profitable trades for a participating customer or that a customer will not incur losses from such events.

3. GENERAL

3.1 Commission and other charges

Before you begin to trade, you should obtain a clear explanation of all commission, fees and other charges for which you will be liable. These charges will affect your net profit (if any) or increase your loss.

3.2 Deposited cash and property

You should familiarise yourself with the protections accorded to the money or other property you deposit particularly in the event of a firm insolvency or bankruptcy. The extent to which you may recover your money or property, may be governed by specific legislation or local rules. In some jurisdictions, property which has been specifically identifiable as your own will be pro-rated in the same manner as cash for purposes of distribution in the event of a shortfall. In case of any dispute with the member, the same shall be subject to arbitration as per the bye-laws/regulations of the Exchange.

3.3 For rights and obligations of the clients, please refer to Annexure-1 enclosed with this document.

3.4 The term 'constituent' shall mean and include a client, a customer or an investor, who deals with a member for the purpose of acquiring and/or selling of securities through the mechanism provided by NSE/BSE.

3.5 The term 'member' shall mean and include a trading member, a broker or a stock broker, who has been admitted as such by NSE/BSE and who holds a registration certificate as a stock broker from SEBI.

Since the dimensions of Securities Trading are dynamic and ever-changing, Clients are further advised to keep themselves updated with the changing environment and Regulatory provisions, frame work and environment.

1. Refusal of orders for penny / illiquid stocks :

Penny / illiquid stocks are generally considered to be highly speculative and high risk bearing because of their lack of liquidity, large bid-ask spread, small capitalization and limited compliance and disclosure. Hence depending on the market condition and Risk perception, RSL will identify such stocks as Penny stocks or Illiquid stocks, RSL may from time to time refuse limit orders in such stocks either based on quantity or value.

The penny stock or Illiquid stock would be identified based on, including but not limited to, following criteria:

- Stocks trading at relatively low price and market capitalization.
- Illiquid stock identified by the Stock exchange(s) on periodic basis.
- Stock falling in the category of Z group of the BSE.

Under exceptional circumstances and considering merits on case to case basis, trading in penny stocks may be allowed to clients subject to stringent verifications of the client holdings, intentions and bonafide reasons given by the clients, trading history of the client, client's traded volumes vis-à-vis market volumes. Trading in penny stock or Illiquid stock may not be allowed on a regular basis to the client. If it is observed that client(s) is/are indulging in trading activities only in penny stocks/ Illiquid stock(s), the client account maybe immediately suspended without any reasons being given to the client.

Further RSL may require compulsory settlement / advance payment of expected settlement value / delivery of securities for settlement or taking additional margin prior to acceptance / placement of order(s). The client agrees that the losses, if any, on account of such refusal or due to delay caused, shall be borne exclusively by the client alone.

RSL may require reconfirmation of orders, which are larger than that specified by RSL's risk management policy and RSL has the discretion to reject the execution of such orders based on its risk perception.

2. Setting up client's exposure limits.

As a part of sound risk management policy of RSL, the client will not be allowed to place orders in far months contract i.e. any order having expiry cycle of three months (far away contracts) in the Derivatives Segment.

In the event of crossing of Market Wide Position Limit (MWPL) (in terms of the number of open positions in underlying security) specified by SEBI / Exchange in a security and a security being under ban / restriction period, the client shall not be allowed to take new / further position in the said security during such ban / restriction period, and the client shall be allowed to trade only to decrease his/ her / its position through offsetting positions in the said security during which the ban / restriction on fresh position is in force for the said security.

In the event of crossing Trading Member Position Limit (TMPL) and / or Client Level Position Limit (CLPL), whether the security is under ban / restriction period or not, the clients shall not be allowed to take new / further position in the said security and the clients shall be allowed to trade only to decrease his/ her / its position through offsetting positions in the said security till the Trading Member Position Limit (TMPL) and / or Client Level Position Limit (CLPL) comes within the permissible trading limit in the said security.

The client agrees that the losses, if any on account of such refusal, or due to delay caused by such review, shall be borne exclusively by the client alone.

If the client's order is executed despite a shortfall in the available margin, the client, shall, whether or not RSL intimates such shortfall in the margin to the client, make up the shortfall suo moto immediately. The client further agrees that he /she / it shall be responsible for all orders (including any orders that may be executed without the required margin in the client's account) & / or any claim / loss /damage arising out of the non availability /shortage of margin /security required by RSL & / or exchange & / or SEBI.

The resultant or associated losses that may occur due to such squaring off or sale of such securities shall be borne by the Client and the Stock Broker is hereby fully indemnified and held harmless by the Client in this behalf. Such liquidation or close out of positions shall apply to any segment in which the Client does business with the Stock Broker.

(ii) The Client is responsible for all orders, including any orders that may be executed without the required Margin/Securities in the Client's account.
